

Each year, HRO Today, one of the broadest-reaching human resource networks and publications, conducts a variety of customer satisfaction surveys for HR-related service providers they've branded as their "Baker's Dozen." From talent management companies, to recruiters and our personal expertise - employment background screening, HRO Today conducts service-oriented online surveys with service provider's client bases to determine an overall quality score. Those who rank within the top 13 based on survey results are rewarded with a spot on their coveted "Baker's Dozen" list, which is published via online newsletter and their monthly magazine.

HRO Today's Baker's Dozen has been proclaimed as the "largest, most prestigious survey in the screening industry" and is open to all businesses that utilize a third party firm as their background screening resource. This may sound familiar to many of you, as we encouraged our clients to provide your feedback to HRO Today over the past few months. To those that took the time to fill out the survey and rate your interactions with our team - we thank you! Without your support, we wouldn't be able to announce that Backgrounds Online ranked overall #7 of the 42+ screening providers whom participated this year.

Service First

Our staff is truly invested in helping our clients find the best people for their staff, and to do so in a way that provides the best quality of service we possibly can. Whether it's the dedicated account managers interfacing with human resource departments throughout the nation, operations staff working diligently to fulfill your screening results in as timely a manner as possible, or our developers turning ideas into functional tools to make the process easier for our clients - to us, service is #1. We thank everyone who participated, and take great pride in making HRO Today's Baker's Dozen.
